Most of the natural resources that we use come from the Earth. These natural resources like water, oil, natural gas, coal etc. are limited. This means these resources will not last forever. Some are renewable, like you plant a new tree when you cut one tree down. Other resources are not renewable. If you dig coal out of the ground it is gone once it is used. People are aware of the fact that natural resources of the Earth are limited. They can take measures to protect these resources. When a person tries to conserve a natural resource, he uses it wisely. One way to save fuel is to ride a bicycle or walk. Water is a very important natural resource because we all need it to stay alive. We can save water by ensuring that our pipes and water taps do not leak. We should use our washing machines only when we have sufficient clothes to wash. Water is a very precious and limited natural resource. The demand of water for agricultural, industrial and urban use is increasing at a very fast rate. Wise use of water resources should really be the concern of all people.
